Specialized skates are excellent for those looking to get into the extreme sport of roller-skating. They are lighter, more maneuverable and fit better than in-line or inline skates. The special blades are also more durable. Three sizes and two styles Specialized skates come in sizes from 0 to 23 and styles from C to X. In the X C range, the Specialized XC Rides, XC Rides Comp and the XC Rides Trail are the most versatile and popular models. The XC Rides Trail is an all-mountain skate for trail riding while the XC Rides Comp is a road-sized skate with longer blades, widths and rigid frames. On the XC Rides Trail and Trail, the Specialized XR1 TruTread outsole and XIR2 wheels are standard. The compact XC Rides Comp is used by road racers, especially for all-mountain trails and cross country races. There are two wheel sizes in the XC Rides Comp: 27.5 and 29 inches. Let your feet do the work The Specialized skates are designed for competition or for playing outside on rough surfaces. The smooth, round, elliptical shape of the blade makes it easy to steer. The cutdown stays that enclose the ankle and allow for better control over the skate. The agility is also good. The Specialized skates are robust and lightweight. More comfortable and better for your feet There are numerous sizes of in-line skates. These skates are heavier and more heavy-duty. However, the Specialized skates are more comfortable and better for your feet. The in-line skates are more prone to blisters, especially if the skates are improperly fit. What to consider when buying a skate The cross-country skates for women have different sizes depending on whether you choose a shorter, medium or long length. A short-length skate should be fitted to fit your ankles and let your feet fit easily in the shell. The medium length skates are fitted closer to your ankle. A long-length skate should be fitted further down your calf. The type of boot that you want to buy is a factor in determining the size that you need. You can buy a skate that will fit directly into your current snow boot, or you can buy a boot that will give you a better fit than your current boot

You can make advanced retouching, color corrections, and special effects by using Photoshop's Liquify (lasso) tool, feature, or adjustment tools. You can convert video, image, or sound files to other formats, adjust your monitor's settings, or create compelling images by using the Photoshop filters. One of the most useful Photoshop commands is the undo command, which allows you to undo previous actions you have performed on an image. You can also use Free Transform to resize, rotate, or move images, and with Layer Masks, you can control how an image is applied to a layer. In this tutorial, we will show you how to use the clone stamp tool to remove objects from a picture. We will use the Liquify tool (lasso tool) to edit our objects and make them disappear. First, we will import an image and set up the new document in Photoshop. Then, we will add a clone stamp to the new document. We will use the clone stamp to remove a colored disk object from the image. After that, we will adjust the clone stamp settings, and we will erase the background color from the layer. Finally, we will save the document. Import the image we will use for this tutorial. The image we will use in this tutorial is called "nebulae.jpg" and it can be downloaded from our Resources page. Open the image in Photoshop and close all the others Photoshop documents. Open an empty document, and use File ► Save as. Save the file as "nebulae_back.psd" into the same folder as the image. It's a good idea to save the file in a folder for this tutorial, because you want to have a backup of the document, and your work. In the new file, the height and width of the new document should be the same as the height and width of the imported image. Place the image on the new document. Use the Rectangular Marquee tool (M) to select a part of the image. The selected area of the image is shown in the Center image above. Click and hold on the Rectangular Marquee tool (M) to create a new selection. The new selection is highlighted blue in the right image. Click and drag across the paper to select a new area of the image. Keep the selection active by holding down the Ctrl key (Windows) or the Command key (Mac
