Brushes don't usually have to be purchased separately because most of them come with Photoshop. However, if you'd like to use a brush that doesn't come with Photoshop, you can buy them separately from the website listed below. Brushes can be found in two different ways. You can find them with the Browse tool in your toolbox. You can also search for them by name. This process allows you to find brushes you'd like to use more quickly. For example, you can find the Brush Tool, Perspective Brush, and Artistic Airbrush. Brush Window Brush Window Brush Window After opening the Brush Window, you can add brushes to your toolbox. After you select a brush, the Brush Window will appear as shown in the image below. In the top bar, the first item is a lasso that allows you to select a portion of the image to use as a brush. The bottom bar has a selector for making the brush copies symmetrical or asymmetrical. Brushes in Photoshop Brushes in Photoshop Icons Show Additional Settings for Brushes Icons Show Additional Settings for Brushes A vertical line in the Brush Window indicates an eraser. Double clicking on the line will bring up two options to change the size of the eraser. Perspective Brush Perspective Brush The Perspective Brush allows you to take and shift a photo on a flat plane. It is not restricted to viewing lines from the original perspective. The tool can be used with any photo. You can use the Perspective Brush to change the perspective of a photo. Because the tool is perspective, you have to use a photo that is laid out flat on its side in order for the tool to work. You use the tool by clicking and dragging over an area of the photo. The area of the photo you draw over will be reflected on the flattened side of the photo. If you want to erase what you drew, click and drag out of the area you drew over. To adjust the positioning of the lines, hold down the Alt key while you click and drag. Use the arrow keys to move the perspective lines. To adjust the size, double click on the line. As of Photoshop CS2, the Perspective Brush can be found in the toolbox. You can access the tool by selecting the toolbox and choosing the Perspective Brush. Lines Lines A Line tool is used for strokes
